WARD'S
Patent Grapple.
THIS GRAPPLE WAS INVENTED BY
Moses N. Ward,
OF BANGOR,
And was patented December 8th, 1868.
IN STRENGTH, SIMPLICITY, and FACILITY OF USE, is far superior to any thing of the kind ever invented.
It is wonderful in its adaptation to every form of object to which it is sought to be applied. Taking a certain hold of logs, barrels, boxes and bales, with equal readiness.
No Mill, or Vessel, or Store nor Store House, should be without it;
It is indispensable to every ship builder, and every boat builder. In fact, this Grapple is invaluable wherever there are heavy objects to be grappled, hoisted and moved.
All persons interested in the use of the Grapple, are invited to call and examine these instruments at the store of the manufacturer.

HEALTH NOTICE.
To the Citizens of Bangor!
THE State has pressed that certain measures shall be pursued in order to insure the health of the inhabitants. Among these measures are cleansing of filth, the foul and noisome nuisance, and all to be injurious to health, from the premises of citizens. Permit me to request to you—
1st.—To examine your cellars, particularly their condition in regard to ventilation. Remove decaying vegetable and all other filthy matters.
2d.—See if there is any offensive smell from your sinks, or in your drains are clogged or unprotected.
3d.—Examine your cisterns and wells, if they are foul, running over, or filthy, or smell badly, have them emptied and disinfectant put into them for your safety and comfort.
4th.—See if there are decaying vegetable matter or filth of any kind about your premises.
5th.—See if there is any public nuisance in your neighborhood, such as open sewers, stagnant pools, stagnant water, or unwholesome stables, &c., &c.
6th.—See if any drains or spouts, privies, stable, or barn yards are in such a condition as to render it unhealthy.
By observing and carrying out the above suggestions you will confer a favor on the public, and a blessing on your own

The Army order issued yesterday by General Sherman, prohibiting the sale of liquor to soldiers, does not prevent the sale of intoxicating wine and some papers and paraphernalia to immediate inquiry at the War Department today on this subject, elicited the information that the instructions also forbade their sale in the sutlers' stores, and the full enforcement is left from being defeated by fraudulent connivance. It was also discovered within the last few weeks that the monthly returns of the nearly three months of the year and that when expired within 12 months, and that when recruiting was reported at the time it would be immediately without soldiers for a year and a half. This is the reason for the large number of recruiting. It nothing to do with Southern affairs. The country are daily to be disbanded in the Union Pacific Railroad Company at Laramie.

SATURDAY, MAY 1, 1869

Public Office and Business.

Much severe comment has been indulged of late upon the office-seeking hordes who have thronged the halls of Congress and haunted the steps of every officer having any favors to bestow. The stories have not been overdrawn in many cases. In Congress and out, during the day and at night, on the streets, in the hotels, at their private houses, have Senators and Representatives been attacked relentlessly and constantly for weeks by men whose lives seemed but one passion—that for office. One class of critics has only spoken of these facts to defame a party, while another has more properly deplored it as the result of general unsoundness, resulting from long dependence upon non-elective and irresponsible official position. While the Democracy have sought to make it a subject of ridicule as confined to one party, the truth is, the evil belongs to no party, but has been encouraged by all parties. Ever since Andrew Jackson declared that "to the victors belong the spoils," periodical scrambles for office have characterized our manner of appointing public servants, and to a great extent have as frequently disgraced our citizenship by preposterous beggary at Washington. Instead of decreasing, this evil has increased greatly of late years, and for very good reasons. The result of war is to create a class of men who are not physically able to perform the labor to which they have been used, others have been demoralized in their own estimation by the same means, the population of the country has immensely increased, and under the high-pressure principle of high prices and inflated currency our young men have not been educated to self-reliant business habits.

To ask for or to hold office is not ridiculous or disreputable. But the system of appointments without popular election is so extensive in our country, and the subordinate offices thus filled so little partake of the nature of legitimate business transactions, that where many of them are required to gather as in a few well known localities, demoralization is almost sure to follow. And this too often is at once the attraction and the result of a lack of moral and intellectual discipline in our every-day life. To ridicule the evil—when it becomes so by reducing office below an honorable calling—is the pride of those who have not the good of mankind at heart, while to deplore it in a friendly manner as an evil only in itself, does not go to the core of the matter, and suggests no remedy.

A large proportion of the men who have ever followed the footsteps of the Congressmen in Washington, for small subordinate positions, are men who are positively dependent upon favors for a living; men who not only have no business to do, but know no business by which they can ever hope to gain a competence; men who have no trade or profession; adventurers to whom life is nothing but a lottery and wealth a chance. In office they can perform a certain round of duties and draw a salary from week to week. Out of office, they are beggars, having no idea of independent business and finding it necessary to begin life anew, with the apprenticeship still before them. Under such men, public offices that should be honorable and honorably filled, are reduced to degradation. Under such circumstances, the country has become justly alarmed at the extent of the complaint, and it must be necessary before long to apply a check in the manner of appointments.

This may remedy the injury to the public service, but it will not cure the social evil. The root is much deeper. The necessity for reform in our civil service,—which is in such a state as to demand change actually in the name of national safety,—springs from a lower depth than any rules or usages of government. The only cure lies with the people in their private capacity. Their practical education is defective. Too many young men go out upon the world without trades, or professions, or any fair notions of trade and commerce. Too many of them misjudge the honest relation of profit and labor. They leave our schools and colleges with the idea that diplomas are equivalent or superior to business experience, that the languages and ethics at the tongue's end establish at once a character and reputation. Soon finding their level far below their fanciful expectations, their dependence must be upon extraneous agencies, and then comes upon a career of office-seeking which is apt to be a life-long servitude.

There is but one reliable recipe for the remedy of the evil: Give the young men practical education; give them something upon which they can rely in struggling with the world; teach them that theoretical classical studies are but the foundation upon which real education is to be erected. Any man with a mechanical trade, a learned profession, a commercial experience, has a capital and is independent. If he goes abroad, he is still at home with the world. If he aspires to public life and service, he can safely enter the competition, because when adversely met, he can once more step back upon the world with confidence. He can seek and take office, because he can afford to do without it and is not a slave. A man should take office if able to live without it, no office should be given to one many who must be entirely dependant upon it's favors.

This evil and this remedy are not confined to and required alone by the present complaint. Outside the circle of official life the great want is practical knowledge, beside which brilliant talents and accomplishments are failures. Wars and panics, and famines, and the greatest crimes, are the result of this want. In the immediate struggle for gain and power, our people overlook the foundations which must be laid for the future, and they seldom acknowledge the real cause of a great majority of all our disasters in private and in public life—the lack of sound business education. Commencing at the root of the evils, it will be easy for each individual to contribute his influence to the reformation which alone can permanently abolish our present complications in the civil service, and give us a healthier commercial condition. Give every man a business education for a capital, and his country is in little danger of dishonor or ruin.

We notice that many of the Democratic papers are heavily denouncing a periodical called the Imperialist, established in the interest of monarchy, in New York, with the curious notion that it is a natural origin of terrible import. The inventive genius who started such a story certainly eclipses the schemer Darius Green, (of the Flying Machine.) But their efforts seem to be wasted at this time, as we hear of not even one monarchy being established on the ruins of poor Democracy, and as the Imperialist itself stoutly declines to be considered a Republican organ. So these valiant Quixotic politicians are as usual fighting wind-mills. Can't we get them a legitimate cause for quarrel? Can't somebody tread on their coat tails?

The Riverside Echo denies that at the late temperance Convention at Richmond, many of the members took decided ground against the movement for a separate party. As to the general idea that even the most radical temperance men are divided upon it, however, it will not pass as an idle assumption. Were a new party to be formed, thousands of them would refuse to abandon the Republican organization. It has not been our intention certainly to misrepresent the real sentiment of the temperance men, and our candid opinion is that they do not demand a new party, but have a better founded hope in abiding with the party which has done more and is the cause—that with proper effort on the part of its friends, it will be true to itself and the people.

The charges of the Echo are not well founded by the history of all parties which has accomplished for the temperance movement what Senator Morrill so well considers a success. If the Republican party were not a temperance party, why does it keep the prohibitory law upon the Statute book when it has the power to repeal it?

There is no fault to be found with the party, nor with the law, nor with the means at hand to enforce it. It seems to us that if we would pay less attention to this matter of political action, and use our influence upon the party in power, and bend our energies to procuring the enforcement of the liquor law—which can be enforced by the co-operation of a portion of public sentiment upon any officers—we should be doing much more practically for the suppression of intemperance, than by wasting our power upon mere technicalities. We believe the people care little for theories and only demand the enforcement of the law.

Spanish atrocities are proverbial, and their violations of the laws of war, in the attempted subjugation of Cuba, have been frequently remarked upon. The dispatch from Key West in yesterday's paper, indicates ferocity on the part of the Spanish authorities almost beyond belief. By the new proclamation of the Island Department Commander,

1st. Every native male over 15 years of age, found away from his residence without sufficient cause, will be executed.

2d. Every unoccupied and unfurnished dwelling where a white flag is displayed, will be reduced to ashes.

3d. Any woman away from their homes, will come to Bayonne or Havana or they will be brought by force.

If it is correctly reported that the Spanish commander has issued such an order, the war has become simply one of extermination and wanton destruction, and the civilized world may witness horrors such as must arouse it to interfere in the affairs of Cuba.

Political and Personal.

A Washington special says that the leading Democrats in Congress would a month ago, felt so confident of success in the radical Republican members, in the President, that they were ready to support the new administration, and abandoning that dodge, and next winter will make open war on President Grant.

Gen Pasha of Wisconsin, who succeeded Mr. Dawes as Chairman of the Committee on Elections, seems to have got on such a "lo he says in a recent letter to the business of going to Congress and over book attractive to me, my observation and experience during the last nine years would have very effectually dispelled the illusion. I will work zealously and faithfully for two years more, as a servant, and then I purpose to resume the dignity of a sovereign and stay at home." It did not take the Gen'l date for re-election.

A Washington correspondent of the New Bedford Mercury, says that President Grant proves the strongest where many Republicans feared he would be weak. As to the status of the colored man, he was harrassed almost daily for weeks by Southern delegations to secure his influence against the Rice-Bolton bill for the restructuring Georgia. In regard to this matter he has taken advance. Republicans, generally, by approving the bill before Congress, have not pressed for want of time in the last session, and next practically from party nominating colored men for office not only for Georgia, but elsewhere throughout the country. Ten of our representatives abroad are colored men, and each one of the Southern States has one or more colored officials.

Hon. John F. Hall, Minister at Madrid, sent a cable dispatch to Secretary Fish, saying: "The attack on my colleague Perry, his letter of March 2nd, is a fraud. I have the documents to prove it, and in a few days I will send them to you."

Senator Foscouden of Maine, was in Ottawa and was present in the House of Commons during a debate on reciprocity Thursday night.

After a consultation with Secretary Boutwell, who returned to Washington yesterday, Assistant Secretary Richardson formally declined the position of Justice of the Supreme Court, of Massachusetts, tendered him by Gov. Claflin, and will remain in the Treasury.

The last Maine Indorser of Senator Sprague are reported to be Clarke K. Milliken of this city, and three others. We supposed the Governor would not stay long with the minority, and sure enough he thanks don't count, but in the majority this time.

The Democratic doctors seem to disagree in relation to the objects and virtues of the Reform League in Boston. The Boston Post seems inclined to give in its adhesion, hoping to arrive where it has so long been a stranger, on the winning side; while the lesser luminaries that revolve around the great party of constitutional liberty, they see a cat under the meal. Not that the principles are bad—but the men who are in it. But they were once abolitionists. Democracy forgot its great mission.

The great event of the day is the death of the man who pulled Gen. Jackson's nose, the great distinction of the day is to send an order for Sprague's speeches and get one of the Globe; the great question of the day is who is Sprague's puppy? We are thankful we live in peaceful times, and we are all more thankful that we're away down east out of the danger of all these affairs of honor.

Senator Trumbull, in a recent conversation, thus illustrated the effect of the present system of office seeking on Congressional independence:

"For example, I want the Secretary of the Treasury to give my man an office. I go up to the Department and wait there for an audience, long or short, as the case may be. The Secretary speaks encouragingly. Next day I go up again, and he is not quite so encouraging. It is by this steady persistence that offices are obtained here. Not merits, nor recommendation, nor impudence, but dogging obtains the offices. Well, the Secretary hears financial policy, perhaps. How can I, as a Senator, speak independently of his policy while my man is in a state of suspense. Thus the executive part of the Government paralyzes a great degree the legislator's independence. We must reform this altogether, or the political state of the country will be degraded beyond recovery."

Correspondence of the Daily Whig.

Letter from Boston.

BOSTON, April 29.

To the Editor of the Daily Whig:

What may eventuate in

A NEW POLITICAL PARTY

was organized at Chickering's Hall on Tuesday night. Just now they call it "The Labor Reform League," an off-shoot from the Free Trade organization, headed in New York by Wm. Cullen Bryant and the Evening Post. The published platform favors the establishment of a simple, moderate and effective tariff, urges the appropriation of the surplus revenue for the abatement of taxes, comes out squarely in favor of Canadian reciprocity, wants Government officers appointed on the score of fitness and ability, and cries loudly for a return to specie payments. These principles are all very well in their way, and if carried out with a will some of them might effect great good for the public; but there is a suspicion that the whole story is not told to the world. Such men as William Lloyd Garrison and P. A. Collins,—the one an anti-slavery agitator and the other a Breckenridge Democrat,—do not pull oars together for the strokes expressed in such a platform as this. What the ultimate of this movement will be, is known, of course, only to its managers, but the great mass of the people will wait for further developments before linking their fortunes with it.

THE NEW EXCHANGE.

The proposed consolidation of all our Trade societies beneath one roof is meeting with very general favor. A proposition has been made to lease from the Old South Society the land now covered by warehouses on Washington, Milk and Spring, for a term of fifty years, at an annual rental of $60,000 for thirty years, and an advance of $75,000 for twenty years. The land to be leased embraces about twenty-five thousand square feet. On a portion of it there are leases which are to be purchased by the Exchange Company. The offer binds the Company to erect a building for commercial uses, to cost at least $400,000, but the size of the same or any portion of it for ornamental performances, or the sale of liquor, is prohibited, and the opening of any reading room on a Sunday is also prohibited. The Exchange Company has six months to perfect its subscription and general plans.

VELOCIPEDE VS. HORSE.

A novel race is to come off at Riverside Park on the first day of May. The participants are Winter Brown, the noted horseman, and the celebrated twenty-mile horse, John Stewart. The latter is to trot ten miles while Brown propels a velocipede over the space of ten, and the winner will receive one thousand dollars. The man will have the inside of the track throughout the entire distance. Betting is not now in about even; Brown's recent success on the velocipede having inspired a belief that for this trial only he will not defeat his friends.

PERSONAL.

Mr. William H. Wheeler, well known by his long connection with the Boston Whig, is now discharging the duties of General Editor of the New England Farmer in the city. His position involves less labor than responsibility and is much more agreeable than the duties of a daily journalist. Mr. Wheeler is in the enjoyment of excellent health.

MINOR ITEMS.

Selwyn's Theatre is now owned solely by Mr. Arthur D. Cheney, but will continue under the same able management as heretofore, maintaining its proud appelation of "The Best Theatre in America."

Workmen are busily engaged in the erection of the Statue of Washington on horseback. Its foundation and pedestal are already on the Public Garden.

This year the University boat race may be rowed at New Haven. The Harvard crew are said to have many unpleasant memories of Lake Quinsigamond, caused probably by the unfriendly comments of the news papers.

As the letter is being read, the roof is partially covering the Peace Coliseum while the galleries are nearly ready for the finishing touches.

The death of Major Rogers was keenly felt among the old employees of the Journal establishment, the services of many of whom were coincident with his own. Although he had been failing for months the blow was none the less a heavy one.

Old patrons of the Bromfield House are informed that their favorite resort has been closed to the public. The building is to be occupied by the Methodist Book Concern for the sale of its publications.

JOCELYN.

The Ellsworth American says the patriotic citizens of Steuben, are about to erect a Soldiers Monument in the centre of their village.

CABLE NEWS

Berlin, April 30. The International Conference to promote the care of the wounded in time of war, which has been in session in this city for several days, adopted an address to the people of the United States of America. In this document the members of the conference express that no representatives from the United States have been present during the proceedings, but we are convinced that that great and noble nation—the foremost of the world—which rendered such great service in the work of humanity, sympathizes deeply with this movement.—The address is signed by 40 delegates, among them the Turkish Ambassador to Prussia. The Conference has ordered copies of the report of its doings to be sent to America with the address.

Whiskey Frauds

CINCINNATI, April 30.

In the United States Court at Covington today, Judge Ballard on the bench, a judgment was rendered against A. W. Darling of Carrollton, Ky., for two hundred thousand dollars in favor of the United States. The suit was to recover a tax on whiskey shipped from Carrollton, and consigned to Henry Grotthemper, Cincinnati. The whiskey instead of going as consigned was taken to another house and sold as free whiskey.

Velocipedism

ROCHESTER, April 30.

Frank Swift of skating celebrity, and James Boyle rode on a velocipede from Syracuse to this city, a distance of 90 miles, in 9 hours. They left Syracuse last evening and arrived here about eight o'clock this evening. The time given is the riding time.

Grand Army of the Potomac.

NEW YORK, April 30.

The non-commissioned officers and privates of the Grand Army of the Potomac, met last evening, Mr. Josh Murray, President. The Secretary read a report, showing the condition of the Society. It organized in March of the present year. It also read a number of resolutions, and has $400 in bank. A Committee was appointed to arrange the necessary preliminaries for the grand review on the 4th of July next.

Foreign Missions

NEW YORK, April 30.

The Commercial's Washington special says—John P. Hale's resignation as Minister to Spain has positively been accepted. His friends here claim that he will be able to refute all charges made against him. Gen. Sickles is to take his place.

Friends are vigorously urging upon the President the appointment of Lieut. Gen. Sheridan to the command of the Military Division of the Pacific, now held by Gen. Thomas. It is believed that Sheridan will be appointed to the command.

Mr. Martin, proprietor of Bryant's Minstrels from Boston, arrived here this morning, and is said to be one of Lent's entertainments tonight.

Foreign Importations.

FOREIGN IMPORTATIONS. The importations of foreign goods at this port during the last month are as follows: From Cuba, 51 hhds. and 121 tierces molasses, and 200 boxes sugar, and from Rosario 800 bags hides.

Hon. Hiram Ruggles enters upon his duties as Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the Fourth District this morning.

POLICE COURT. Friday, April 30th.—Wm. D. McLaughlin, who appealed to the Supreme Judicial Court from Bangor, was defaulted. Wm. H. McCrillis and Henry F. McLaughlin, proprietors of the Franklin House, were up before the Court on a search and seizure warrant. They plead not guilty, and after a hearing of the case, the Judge reserved his decision until to-morrow morning.

James E. Morgan plead not guilty on a similar warrant, and the decision was also reserved in his case till tomorrow morning.

John McCann was fined $80 and costs on a complaint for selling intoxicating liquors. Sentence to appealed.

Hiram Wass was arraigned on a complaint for larceny of twenty dollars in money from Hannah Hubert, and the larceny being proved he was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs or be committed to the County jail for one month. She appealed, and in default of bail to the sum of $200 for her appearance at the August term of the Supreme Court, he was sent up to Whitney's.

LENTEN ENTERTAINMENT. The ladies of the Union Street Methodist Church gave a levee at the City Hall last evening. Refreshments were served up from six to half past seven, after which the Young Folks of the Society gave a very pleasing dramatic exhibition, consisting of Farce, Tableaux, Charades, &c., which were got up in fine style, and passed off in a manner highly satisfactory to those present. We were not present till near the close, and therefore are unable to make special mention of the different parts.

A lady living on Garland Street had her gold watch and chain stolen a day or two since, but locating the matter up, found it had been taken by a little girl who was in the habit of doing chores for her, and whom she had treated with great kindness. The little girl broke the crystal, and told her mother she found the watch in a pile of rubbish. With the exception of the crystal the watch was uninjured when recovered.

DEATH OF A FAITHFUL PASTOR. We learn of the death in Minot on Thursday, April 29th, of Rev. Elijah Jones, for more than forty years pastor of the Congregational Church in that town. Mr. Jones was a member of the first class that graduated at the Bangor Theological Seminary in 1820, and has been for many years a trustee of that institution.

NATIONAL PEACE JUBILEE. The arrangements for this grand musical festival in Boston are published in another column of to-day's paper. Tickets may be secured at Lyon's Book Store, where may be found the plan of the Coliseum and particulars of the festival. Season tickets, for three persons, $100. Single admission, with reserved seats, $5 and $3 according to location. Single admission, without reserved seat, $2.

—The James Woodbury mentioned in our Police report yesterday, is not, (as everybody ought to know) the Alderman from Ward Three, but an entirely different man, who may probably never reach the Aldermanic bench except he should migrate to Mackerelville.

—The Architectural Review and Builders' Journal for May is just out, and its publishers, Messrs. Clinton, Robeson & Hollingsworth, Philadelphia, display a great degree of enterprise and taste in perfecting it. Among its best articles are "Architecture and Republicanism," "Ministers of England," "Iron Fronts," "Important to Young Men," "Warming and Ventilation," "Horace Greeley" Barn," "Fire Proof Construction," "Cottages," "Concrete and Beton," and many others of equal interest. In the building up and improving of towns nothing is of more importance than the study and general information of Architecture, and the editor of this Magazine, Samuel Sloan, is the best authority. Subscriptions for this periodical are received in Bangor by D. Bugbee & Co.

—We are informed that the citizens of Rockland, Me., on Saturday last, voted to build a brick school-house, at a cost of seven thousand dollars. This is a much needed reform in the matter of school-houses in that district.

—Four inmates of the Insane Asylum at Augusta, made their escape on Wednesday. Two of them were recaptured yesterday morning at Waterville, twenty miles above there. The others are still at large, but will undoubtedly be found.

A REPORT CONTRADICTED. It is not true, as stated in some of the papers, that the Secretary of the Treasury is considering the propriety of reducing the number of national banks to one in each election district. He has no power under the law to do anything of the kind. This report perhaps arose from the fact that the department is debating whether the United States depositaries may not well be reduced to one in each congressional district. Some reduction in this direction is probable, but the extent to which it shall go is not yet fully determined upon. [Washington Ev. & Advertiser.

—The Rockland Free Press learns that the mills in Warren, known as Hill's Mills, owned by Caswell Mersy, took fire on Thursday morning of last week and were destroyed. They consisted of a single, up-and-down saw, stave machine and dressing machine.

LOCAL AND MAINE ITEMS.

Supreme Judicial Court—Civil Term.

KENT J., presiding.

Friday, April 30.

Penobscot, Fair Ground Company, Appellee, vs. Penobscot, Fair Ground Company, Appellant. Action to recover rent for use of land and field defendants, who set up as a defence that they had taken nothing by the premises under a verbal agreement to purchase the same, and therefore were not liable for rent. After the testimony was out the case was carried up on report.

Nelson, Bowditch & Wilson, for Plaintiff. Bishop, Peters, Hale & Page, Libel for divorce—cause—violent temper, personal violence, and assault and battery, on the part of the wife against her husband. Defendant wrote the breeches and was the strong man of the two. Divorce decreed, the mother to have the child.

Nelson, Wilson & Wilson, for Libellant.

The Indictments were dismissed and the Court adjourned to Saturday, at 10 A. M.

—Rev. J. E. Gould will preach tomorrow morning at 10½ o'clock.

—Prof. Balfour will supply the desk at the Universalist Baptist Church on Essex St. tomorrow.

—A large number of season tickets to the Circus Festival have already been sold, but there yet remain plenty of good seats, both in the reserved and lower floor. On Monday next all the tickets will be sold for either of the Concerts, for the accommodation of those who can not attend only a portion of the time. The attendance from out of town promises to be larger than usual. Parties from Portland, Augusta, Waterville, Rockland, Belfast, Bucksport, Camden, Lincoln, and other towns, have sent orders for tickets. We feel certain that our own citizens will extend their usual generous support to the Festival. There are many reasons why they should do so. Besides the attractions of an entertainment of such an elevated character, and of which the influence is so thoroughly good, it is for our own interest to sustain heartily any enterprise which attracts people to and is of benefit to the city.

—Martin Brothers' Minstrels from Boston, are to give one of their entertainments at Norumbega to-night.

STREET BEGGING. Last Sunday evening at 9 o'clock, two girls, probably six or eight years old, though neither could tell her age, were on High street begging for "cold victuals," each with a large basket. They represented that they had eaten nothing since morning—that the father of one was dead and of the other at sea, and that they lived near the Seminary. On being taken to the Marshal's office and questioned carefully, both admitted they had both dinner and supper,—said they lived near Dyer's Foundry, and that their fathers were at home. They were unwilling that any one should go home with them lest they "should get a thrashing." One of the policemen followed them home and ascertained that the father of one was intemperate, but that the father of the other was receiving two or three dollars a day, but sent his girl out to beg, telling her not to give her name or residence. If there is any collector whose duty it is to look after cases of this sort, which are by no means rare, it is to be hoped he will attend to his duty. If there is no such officer, the City Government should at once take some measures, not only to have the parents dealt with, but to have the children placed under better influences.

AUGUSTA ITEMS. An Augusta correspondent informs us that business is quiet at the capital. The Kennebec there has been very high for a week past, the water covering the wharves so that the little steamboat which runs in connection with the Boston boats, came up over the wharf on Wednesday and discharged her load inland. He also writes: "We hope to have more notoriety here. Mr. Cony, who owns a block of three stores on Water Street, near the site of the old Stanley House, is going to add one or two stories to the height of the same and convert the building into a Lotbinop. He has already commenced operations."

THE HALLOWELL HOUSE. Our correspondent writes this Hallowell once the smartest place on the river, that is old house of four hotels, is now without any. The Hallowell House is now closed up, it having the past week passed into the hands of Messrs. Bodwell, Wilson & Co. They have notified the boarders that they will have to leave. Whether they are going to repair and open again, or what disposition they are going to make of it, is not yet known.

—Ex-Senator Lot M. Morrill comes out in a recent number of the National with an able defence of the temperance cause in this State.

—Thirty thousand dollars a year for teachers' salaries in an Indianapolis township. Just the township for a Democratic Convention.

—The Anson Advocate says that at a town meeting held in Anson last Saturday, it was voted to have three assessors to act on the town and formally voted for the subscription to the Somerset Railroad. The Selectmen had declined to act on the ground that the terms and condition of which the town voted to subscribe had not been complied with.

—The American says at a meeting of the Stockholders of the Mt. Desert and Tremont Telegraph Company, Henry Clark was elected President and Capt. Abraham Richardson of Tremont, A. J. Whiting of Mt. Desert, Directors; Capt. David Babcom, Treasurer, B. G. Salsbury, Clerk—Most of the stock is taken up and the line will be in operation by the first of July.

—The Belfast Journal notices that there is but one solitary velocipede to Belfast, and he can't ride that one by moonlight.

Good Calves. Mr. W. R. Bartlett, Newbury Corner, Hampden, says he has a cow that dropped a calf Feb 20, 1866, that weighed when one day old 125 pounds. At eight months old he weighed 367. He sold the calf for $70, in this city. He also says one of his cows on the 21st of April dropped a calf that weighed 132 pounds four hours old.

—The American says that ship building east of Ellsworth is the topic of conversation quite brisk.

LOSS OF FREIGHT. The Eastport Sentinel says the American fishing schooner Alaska of St. John's, Nfld., with cargo bound for New York went ashore on Black Island on Tuesday night the 20th, and bilged. The deck load was the most valuable, and the vessel only, we are told, with one trifling exception.

Another vessel, a brig, hailing from St. John, N. B., bound to St. John; went ashore on Great Duck Island the same night and is a total loss. Sold at auction for $170.

The Schooner Whilla of St. John was wrecked on Herse Island, near Swan's Island, and three men were drowned, by the name of George Thrall 2nd, James Sound of Swan's Island and the name of the third man, no known. Holmes, Sprague and Jacob Eldridge rescued by fishermen.

Captain Sprague of Swan's Island found a red leather Shoe, and he examined a vessel and went out and discovered the bunnacles on the crew on Heron Island, they having been without food or fresh water 3 days.

THE CANADIAN REPRESENTATION QUESTION. Perley telegraphs the Boston Journal that the question of reciprocal trade with the British Provinces is again being agitated. The Ways and Means Committee of the House referred the subject of a treaty to-day to a sub-committee of Messrs. Schenck and Brooks, and upon their report a resolution was presented, which the House passed, requesting the President to open negotiations with the Dominion of Canada looking to a treaty for the free navigation of the St. Lawrence river, the protection of the American fisheries, and a reciprocal trade. Since the adjournment of Congress Secretary Fish has been asked by the Canadian authorities to suggest a basis for negotiations, and it is probable that the House Committee on Ways and Means, or some of its members, will, during the coming summer, visit Ottawa and Montreal, for conference with the Canadians.

AN INUNDATION. About 12 o'clock Tuesday night the main water pipe on the 4th Avenue at 59th street, New York city, burst, tearing up a portion of the Harlem Railroad track on the avenue, as well as that on 60th street, belonging to the Belt line. The grading of the avenue, which was raised to the height of about fifteen feet was washed away, and the culverts on the north and south-west completely and wholly lifted from their foundations and thrown aside. A young man, who first discovered the inundation, aroused the sleeping tenants. The water by this time had risen to the chamfers, so it was found impossible to save any furniture, and the occupants of some only escaped being drowned by mounting to the roofs until assistance arrived. One of the shanties was the scene of an affecting circumstance, which, but for the timely aid given by the crowd which was by this time attracted to the locality by the cries of those in danger, would probably have proved fatal to at least two human beings. This shanty was occupied by a poor woman whose husband was absent, and who had been confined only two days ago, and who had not risen from her bed. When notified of her danger she was unable from fright to make any movement for escape until by repeated screams her terrible position was discovered, and even then she was only rescued by lifting her and the child to the roof of the shanty from which she was subsequently removed with considerable difficulty. The police dept word immediately to the Croton Water Aqueduct Department, who, immediately turned off the the water on the eastern side of the city, and none has since been obtained in the eastside Wards. By the time his much was accomplished the water in the sunken lots had risen to the height of about 25 feet, almost completely submerging the shantie and thereby preventing the owners from saving but very little of their property, except such articles as beds, tables and chairs. The scene next morning presented a sad spectacle all along the street on each side of Fourth avenue. The families who were thus involuntarily compelled to desert their homes were scattered in every direction.

A CRY FOR INDEPENDENCE. The Montreal Star of the 26th has the following significant article:

"WHAT FOR—

It would Independence it would be that for England struck it would relieve her of the only weakness which exists in her American policy. She cannot fight with independence to the Alabama claims, for instance, but the moment she is sorting herself she bring on us the terrible ravages of a hopeless war. Become independent, and from the hands of the Mother country.

We are hostages now. If there must be high words, let it be understood between America and Britain that they shall not even come to them, and that New York, not Montreal, or Halifax, is to be bombarded. We give England nothing, and bearing a reflection precisely similar when it ceases to be just to practice, and to retort upon America trade, the great prize in dispute. It would be for

It would remove the only possible cause of quarrel between England and America, or Canada and America. It would do away with the foolish prejudice of sentiment in case of British connection, which makes the Americans misjudge Canada, and retards America in true union. It would, wisely conducted, lead to the Zollverein, we are told. If there five cents per pound tax per it would swamp provincial discontents. It would bring to full fruition the industries of Canada, thus carrying trade and manufactures. It would place the two countries on the same trading materially, and the arrest of the old Stanley House, is going to add one or two stories to the height of the same and convert the building into a Lotbinop. He has already commenced operations."

New Grass.

BY JOHN S. PLATT.

Along the sunny city street,
Faint auguries of fragrance meet,
My wandering answers
In April's smile, while yet the sun
Or Spring's most distant place has won
By many a vacant pause.

Whoever reads these lines has felt
That breath whose long-lost perfumes melt
The spirit—newly fanned
While the sweet, banished rebels, full
Of earth's forgotten sympathies
Rise from the sweeping ground.

It is the subtle breath of grass,
And as I paused, or lingering pass,
With life-fraught spell behold!
Bright from old baptism of dew,
Fresh meadows burst upon my view,
And new because the old!

Old longings, Oh! sans to kissing Pain!
Old visions, Oh! no again—
Life's fabled dupes are stirred.
The fountain heads of memory flow
Through channels dry as long ago,
With music long unheard.

I think of pastures evermore
Greener than any hour before,
Where cattle wander slow,
Large-uddered in the sun, or chew
The cud content in shadowy lew,
Or, shadows, homeward low.

I dream of prairies dear to me;
Afar in amber tones
Their widowed miles arise,
Where, like the butterfly and bee,
Far off to pursuits the free,
That seems so large, flies.

Thy rural land, Ohio, come!
Back to me, grateful with the hum
Of everything that stirs.
Dear places, sanctioned by the years,
Lent to my childish fears,
Their secret messengers,

I think of paths—a swarm with wings
Of bird and bee—all lovely things
From sky or sunny clod
Of play-ground where the children play,
And fear not time will come to-day
And feel the warming sod.

Now grass, it grows by cottage doors,
In orchards hushed with bloom, by shores
Of streams that flow as green,
On hill-slopes rank with toil, or shoop,
And where the sacred messenger
The holy dead unseen.

It grows o'er distant graves. I know—
Sweet grass above them greener grow;
And guard them tenderly!
My brother's bed is there—my mother's breast,
My sister's—new made only seen
Through far-off tears by me.

It grows on battle-fields, alas!
Old battle-fields are lost in grass.
Now battles wait the new.
Hark, is it the flying wind I hear?
The cannon farther boo anear?
The bee and cannonade!

Washington, April 3, 1863.

Salmon Fishing in Maine.

We condense the following account of salmon fishing in Maine from an interesting and scientific article in Lippincott's Magazine for May, by our townsman, Dr. A. C. Hamlin:

A century ago the rivers and lakes of Maine teemed with the salmon and the trout. Not only were the great rivers and expanded lakes frequented by these valuable fish, but even the lesser streams that emptied directly into the sea or its fiords, and the most distant tributaries that drain, of the wild forests and mountain ranges of the interior, were stocked with incredible numbers of the salmonidæ. Since then a great change has taken place; and while casting our fly to-day in our exhausted streams we can hardly believe the stories of our octogenarian fisherman relative to the vast shoals of fish they encountered when they, the white settlers, occupied our primitive forests and attempted to found La Nouvelle France.

The migratory salmon enters now but few of our largest rivers; it ascends them in spring, and passes the summer and autumn season like its prototype, the salmon of Europe; but it seems to differ from its European brother in game qualities for it generally refuses to take the bright, showy flies and the silver-sided minnows which are so successful in the hands of the British angler in the rivers of England, Scotland and Ireland.

Why the salmon should be so sullenly or capriciously I am at a loss to comprehend; still I am willing to admit that it is possible that in other seasons it might take the bait with great readiness. A part of this singular worthless may be due to the injurious effect of sawdust in obstructing the respiration of the fish, for we know that Sir Humphrey Davy could catch no salmon in the rivers of Norway, whose waters were disturbed by mills and laden with sawdust, yet he was immediately successful in Sweden, where the rivers were clear and unobstructed. This circumstance should encourage our fishermen to persevere in their efforts and seek the salmon in their native rivers.

But if we would secure our success with the sea-run fish we must carefully observe over the game laws, and protect the spawning fish of our lake-trout and fine species of the Salmonidæ.

HENRY D. COOKE, Vice-President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.

This Company, National in its character, offers by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.

The low rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insured as are those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the objections and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends, and the misunderstandings which the latter are liable to cause the Policy-Holders.

Several new and attractive ... are now presented, which need only to be ... to ... acceptable to the public, such as the ... PRODUCING POLICY & RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former, the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. of ... as a part of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the insured the total amount money he has paid in, ... to the amount of his
